

TRIENNIAL INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY CONFERENCES 2026

Volume I | Issue II | June 29, 2026 |
Date & Venue : 19-21 November 2026, CHRIST University, Bangalore, India

"Before the change was visible, it was felt, in the quiet decision of one person who chose to show up, and in doing so, changed everything."
– Ralph Waldo Emerson

TICC's Thematic Areas & Themes

The 3rd Triennial International Community Conference is centered on the theme "Local Wisdom, Global Influence - Resilient Glocal Communities for Meaningful Humanity." Through three interconnected thematic areas "Education, Health, and Social," the conference explores how globally informed ideas and locally rooted solutions can come together to build stronger, more resilient communities. Below are the sub-themes for TICC 2026.

Day 1 - Education : Rethinking Learning Ecosystems - A Glocal Multigenerational Approach By addressing the limitations of conventional education we consequently promote deeper learning, creativity, and access. With an emphasis on holistic approaches to educational systems and spaces, discussions will focus on exploring alternative educational structures with a multigenerational lens that considers global reach and local designs.	Day 2 - Health: Building Holistic Health - Local Wisdom meets Digital Reality The possibility to democratize safe and end to end solutions for health care issues by leveraging digital platforms to disseminate care for a local people is the challenge of our times. The urgency to empower healthcare providers with distribution of such knowledge and resources on the ground in order to make healthcare more accessible is the priority for decision makers of today.	Day 3 - Social: Bridging Heritage and Equity: Empowering Communities Through Indigenous Knowledge for Resilient Futures Empowering Communities Through Indigenous Knowledge for Resilient Futures highlights how local knowledge, cultural identity, and equitable systems can address global challenges. It connects grassroot realities with global discourse, fostering inclusive development, preserving heritage, and enabling communities to co-create adaptive, context-driven solutions across diverse social and economic landscapes.

Voices from Our Community

There are many reasons why I feel connected to LUD. One of the strongest is the community itself, a group of passionate individuals who are genuinely committed to giving back and creating meaningful change. What has brought me back from the previous LUD conference to this one is the opportunity to be part of a movement that empowers young people to become active participants in shaping their own futures. Supporting and encouraging the next generation to take ownership of the world they want to create is something I deeply believe in and want to continue contributing to.

Coming from a background in mental health and education, many of the challenges discussed within this forum resonate strongly with my own professional experiences. LUD provides a unique opportunity to collaborate with others who share similar goals and concerns, while also learning from their perspectives, experiences, and solutions. For me, participating in LUD is not only about contributing to society and driving positive change; it is equally a journey of personal and professional learning. Each experience, conversation, and collaboration helps me grow while allowing me to support a cause that I care deeply about.

Ms. Lauretta Philip,
Head of Inclusion and Designated Safeguarding Lead

Social Global Convener - TICC 2026

As part of the organizing committee of LUD, I had a chance to contribute back to society in small yet significant ways. It opened up common platform for educators, social and health workers to intervene and contribute in building a resilient community. This vision of LUD always had me glued to its activities and will continue to do. As I closely worked with the various community leaders from education, health and social it helped me realize how much each of us can contribute in building a society. The one word which describes LUD for me is the love that is equally shared with all the members of the community irrespective of their status.

Assistant Professor, Dept of Biotechnology St. Francis College for Women, Hyderabad
